Parsons and Finegold fight to the finish

Figuring candidates' differences

By Neil Fater

Although both Democratic candidates for state representative list taxes at the top of their agendas, Denise Parsons and Barry Finegold have differing views regarding lowering the state sales tax and slowing residential growth.

Mr. Finegold has talked of establishing a "sliding scale" of lower sales tax rates for communities near the New Hampshire border, and proposes slowing growth in Andover by using state bond money to buy undeveloped land.

Ms. Parsons is opposed to creating special tax zones for border communities and appears to be leaning against using state money to buy open land.

"Sometimes trying to slow growth isn't necessarily a good thing," she said from her campaign headquarters Tuesday evening.

Finegold-Parsons race tops ballot

By Neil Fater

With only one of eight possible races contested on the Republican ballot and no candidates at all on the Libertarian ballot, Tuesday's state primary, Sept. 17, looks to be a primarily Democratic day.

There are six contested Democratic races, although the one expected to bring out the voters in Andover is the state representative race between Denise Parsons and Barry Finegold for the 17th Essex District. The winner of this primary will face Republican James Fox in November.

The 17th Essex District covers most of Andover and a portion of Lawrence.

Randy Hanson, town clerk, expects 8,000 to 10,000 of Andover's more than 18,000 registered voters to cast their ballots in this and other races.

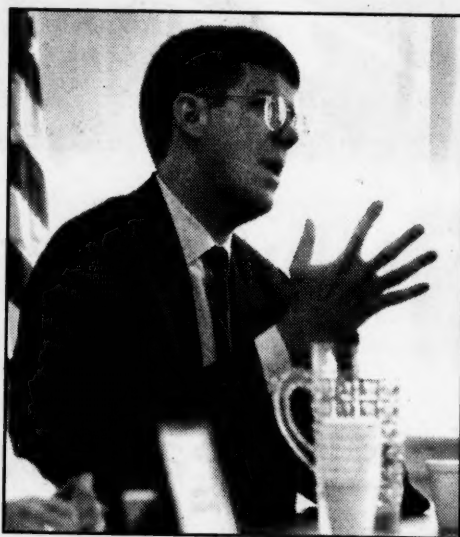

"The primaries (attendance) can run up and down. You never know" how many people will show, said Ms. Hanson. "I'm hoping at least that many people come."

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8

Andover's biggest parade ever is this Sunday

By Virginia Lopez Begg
350th Committee

It will be the biggest parade Andover has ever seen, and very possibly the largest gathering of citizens in the history of the town, according to James Doherty, 350th parade committee chairman and grand marshal.

Andover's 350th anniversary celebration parade, in the planning for three years, will kick off this Sunday, Sept. 15, at 1:30 p.m. More than 90 bands, floats and marching units are expected to take about two and a half hours to complete the 2.4-mile route. There is no rain date, because it is too big an event to try to reschedule, according to 350th Committee members.

Close to 3,000 participants will be in the parade, according to Fire Lt. James Cuticchia, parade coordinator. Police and parade organizers expect 15,000 to 20,000 or more people to come out to watch the parade.

The 350th Committee budgeted $70,000 for the parade and it's "a little under budget," according to Norma Gammon, chairwoman of the 350th.

The parade will begin at Phillips

A UFO experience

By J. Colin Sullivan

Dean Riendeau, of 113 Pine St., says that in 1985 he saw a UFO on a remote road outside of Chartierville, Canada, just five miles from the United States border.

To tell his story, Mr. Riendeau begins by opening a beaten leather briefcase filled with letters, pamphlets, business cards and newspaper clippings. He produces a photo. The picture shows an unidentifiable object — much like a construction worker's helmet — sitting in the middle of the road next to a barn.

He was driving from his parents' house in Chartierville to visit his uncle in LaPatrie, Canada when he drove over a hill and encountered what he believes was an alien "mother ship." It was a shiny crystal-like color, larger than the surrounding trees, with landing pads coming down from it, he says.

"Lucky I had my pocket insto-matic camera with me and snapped a shot of it," Mr. Riendeau recalls on a recent interview with 92.5 FM radio station.

Everything was silent, but he remembers feeling some sort of heat coming from the craft. Nervous, he turned the car around. He had hoped that he had captured it on camera.

As a member of MUFON (Mutual Unidentified Objects Network), Mr. Riendeau says he has researched the history of the Chartierville area and that there have been a number of similar occurrences in the vicinity.

When asked if anyone has accused him of being crazy, he replies, "Not to my face. I've gotten mixed reactions from family and friends. Some are excited. Some are like, 'Good luck.'"

Mr. Riendeau plans to market his strange experience. T-shirts and posters will soon be available. He says he just wants people to know about it.

When asked how many times he has returned to the site, Mr. Riendeau said he has been back several times. When asked the name of the road where the close encounter took place, he could not recall. When asked if he ever talked with the owners of the barn that the space ship parked next to, he said no.

Chartierville authorities could not be reached for comment.

Not a mouse — a moose!

By Don Staruk

A couple of Woburn Street area residents were surprised by a moose in their neighborhood last Sunday morning, Sept. 8.

"My wife spotted him. He was walking up Odyssey Way," said John Saryan, of 8 Odyssey Way.

His wife, Debra, had gone out to run an errand and was returning about 8:35 a.m. in her car when she spotted the animal. She called her husband on the car phone and told him to look outside the house and see the moose. He opened the shades and there it was, Mr. Saryan said.

"He crossed over my lawn and my neighbor's lawn and disappeared into the woods," Mr. Saryan said.

His two girls, Valerie, 11, and Melanie, 5, and two of their friends who spent the night, Laura, 10, and Leslie Barber, 7, of Spartan Way, also saw the moose.

"We weren't dressed, so we didn't try to go after him," Mr. Saryan said.

The moose headed into the woods behind the cul-de-sac on

NEWS IN BRIEF

US League president to speak in Andover

Becky Cain, president of the League of Women Voters of the United States, will speak on "Making Democracy Work, Restoring Public Confidence," Thursday, Oct. 1, from 7 until 9 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library.

The public is invited.

Also in attendance that evening will be Nancy Carapezza, president of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts.

The League's 42nd national convention in Chicago voted to adopt the program, Making Democracy Work as the issue for emphasis for 1996-97.

"We have tools and skills to equip the public with a better understanding of how government of, by and for the people can work," Ms. Cain said at the convention. "As the public's trust of the political system and government is eroded, participation declines and solutions do not reflect the common good. And frankly, support for the various advocacy positions taken by the League is diminished, both from the public and in Congress."

Council on Aging seeks visiting volunteers

Volunteers are needed for the Friendly Visitors Program offered by the Andover Council on Aging, in conjunction with Family Service Association of Greater Lawrence. The focus of this program is to meet the needs of older adults who live in their own home, public housing and nursing homes in Andover by matching them with a volunteer friendly visitor.

Each volunteer is trained and supervised. Friendly Visitors visit a specific elderly person for approximately one hour per week. The object of this program is to provide companionship, stimulation and support to older persons who spend large amounts of time alone.

An information session will be given at the Andover Senior Center on Thursday Sept. 26, at 10 a.m. Training will take place in October. For more information, please call Niki or Olivia at the Andover Senior Center, 623-8321.

Senator O'Brien lists local hours

State Senator John O'Brien, D-Andover, will hold office hours locally Thursday, Sept. 19, from 8:30-9:30 a.m. at the Senior Center at Whittier Court; and Monday, Sept. 23, from 6 until 7 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library.

Arts Council to explain its grants program

The Andover Arts Lottery Council will hold a public information meeting Thursday, Sept. 26, in the third floor conference room at Town Offices at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is intended to provide an opportunity for the public to be introduced to the council members and to be informed of the policies, guidelines and procedures the council follows in awarding grants for arts projects intended to benefit the town.

The deadline for submitting applications for this year's funding cycle is Tuesday, Oct. 15. Application packets will be available at the meeting or at the Town House (Old Town Hall) on Main Street.

The Arts Lottery provides support for community arts without dependence on tax dollars. The intent of the program is to encourage the arts within the cities and towns of Massachusetts.

The funds are appropriated annually from revenues of the Megabucks game and are distributed to local arts councils by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council.

Town Democrats set Sept. 18 meeting

The Andover Democratic Town Committee has scheduled a short business meeting to be followed by an election celebration Wednesday, Sept. 18, at Backstreet Restaurant at 7 p.m.

The unity party will include Senator John O'Brien, Barry Finegold, Denise Parsons and other candidates on the ballot this fall. Everyone is welcome to join the meeting and victory celebration. For information on this meeting or any other questions on Democratic Town Committee Chairperson Norma L. Villareal.

Narrowing of Route 28 at PA to go forward

By Don Staruk

Despite opposition voiced by several residents Monday night, Phillips Academy and the Mass Highway Department will go forward with plans to narrow Route 28 through the PA campus from four lanes to two.

Construction could start as soon as this Monday, but will likely be postponed until spring because there are only about six weeks left in this construction season, according to Peter Kutrubes, a Mass Highway official.

Selectmen hosted what they billed as an informational meeting Monday night on the proposed project, saying the meeting was more of a courtesy to residents who may have been uninformed on the details of the proposal rather than an official hearing, since the project has already been approved.

TOWN TALK

Not a mouse – a moose!

Odyssey Way and toward the end of Acropolis Circle

Mr. Saryan called the police, then got dressed, grabbed his video camera and went in the car looking for the moose. He drove on Woburn Street toward Wilmington and into the Wilmington industrial park, but to no avail.

Wayne Nader, Andover's animal control officer, said police received two or three calls about the moose walking through backyards in the Woburn Street area. Officer Nader said he took the first call, then went out looking for the moose himself, but also had no luck.

"I didn't see it," Officer Nader said.

But he said that area where the moose was spotted is swampy with a lot of wetland habitat, "which would be ideal for them."

He said the reports were of only one moose, or at least one at a time. The animal was described as being "big with a full rack," and appearing healthy.

'We're not reducing the capacity of that roadway, that's the simple answer. The state would not allow that.'

Robert Vanesse, president of Robert Vanesse Inc.

But even after two hours of going through the reasons for the traffic changes and outlining the two-year chronology of events leading to the awarding of a contract for the job last month, several of the 30 or more residents at the meeting still seemed to be against the plans.

One of the main issues brought out by Donald Johnson, of 4 Applecrest Road, was that the changes will result in longer backups and delays in that stretch of roadway, and he questioned the engineers' studies and reports to the contrary.

"We're not reducing the capacity of that roadway, that's the simple answer," said Robert Vanesse, president of Robert Vanesse Inc., the traffic engineering firm involved in the project. "The state would not allow that."

Some residents questioned the cost of the project, $747,000, to be paid by Mass Highway with state taxes. They said that if PA wants the project, they should pay for it. PA already spent about $160,000 for the design plans.

One suggestion by those opposed to the plan was to use paint, grooves in the pavement or other means to reduce the lanes from four to two, rather than moving the curbs. That way the effort would be reversible if it doesn't work.

PA officials said a simulated trial of the narrowing was done during a recently completed project to install utilities through that stretch, and it worked. Mr. Kutrubes said that, in the event that the changes do cause unforeseen problems on the roadway, the state would be back to correct them, even if it meant reversing the changes.

Residents also questioned the statistics cited in a safety report that said 58 accidents, including four involving pedestrians, have occurred in that half-mile stretch of roadway during the last five years. Police and PA officials stood by those numbers.

Opponents also asked what PA was doing to encourage the students to cross Route 28 at the crosswalks, and not helter skelter wherever they saw fit. School officials said an ongoing training program has been incorporated into the school's program.

Mr. Kutrubes said that, in the end, Mass Highway listens to the selectmen, presuming they represent the majority interest of the town, as to whether the town supports or does not support a project. If anyone is to be held accountable for this project moving for-

Real estate firms Victor and Hunneman merge

By Don Staruk

Hunneman & Company-Coldwell Banker last week bought Bill and Bunny Maren's The Victor Company real estate business for an undisclosed sum.

"It is official now, as of today," Bunny Maren said Friday, Aug. 30.

But it wasn't until last week that Hunneman was ready to consider the sale final.

"We do have a deal with Victor Real Estate, in which the new company will be called Hunneman Victor Real Estate Co.," Joe Bernieika, Hunneman spokesman, said last Friday.

Bill Maren, who along with his wife, Bunny Maren, founded The Victor Company in 1963, will remain as a consultant to the new company, but not in an official capacity. Bunny Maren and the couple's son, Jon Maren, will be a part of the new company.

"We are pleased to have the Marens and their staff of knowledgeable and experienced sales associates join our Hunneman group," said William E. Kiley Jr., president of Hunneman.

"Jon Maren will be joining Hunneman in a managerial position, and Bunny will continue to service her client base as a sales associate out of the Andover office."

The move adds 50 sales associates and staff plus three offices - in Andover, Methuen and Boxford - to Hunneman's growing team of more than 1,600 sales associates and 61 offices across Massachusetts, according to Mr. Bernieika.

The acquisition of The Victor Company improves Hunneman's position in the Andover/North Andover marketplace as well as in Boxford, Topsfield and the greater Lawrence/Haverhill area, according to Mr. Kiley.

Part of Andover's 350th anniversary celebration included a visit from 137 residents of Andover, England, who played in a golf match Tuesday, Sept. 3, and in soccer games during Labor Day weekend. Michelle's Boutique opens

By J. Colin Sullivan

Where can you buy a hat from Dallas, a couture belt from Milan, silk scarves from Asia and unique studded pocketbooks from Cordova, Calif.? Michelle's Boutique at 28 Chestnut St., of course.

Michelle Ricciuti, owner, says there's something for everyone here. She credits the "different and classy" store's selection to the time she has dedicated to shopping around hundreds of different markets across the country and abroad.

"We have cruise wear from Puerto Rico, accessories, shoes, boots and even just got in a Barbie doll with a mink coat for the winter," says Ms. Ricciuti.

"I do all the buying. I don't buy anything I haven't seen or touched. I go to the apparel shows and manufacturers' showrooms and look at many many collections."

Michelle's Boutique recently relocated to Andover from Stoneham because, Ms. Ricciuti says, the clientele were pulling her this way. She says the new location will aid an already healthy business because of the stores around it, such as the salon and Earth Food Store.

Anne, a return customer from Woburn, says she makes her monthly visit because the store is "nice, different, and because of Michelle."

Above all, Ms. Ricciuti prides herself in catering to the individual needs of the customer.

Store hours and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday, 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.; and Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The store will host a fashion show in collaboration with Backstreet... Again Wednesday, Sept. 25.

Business is booming at Dundee Office Park

By Don Staruk

Business at Dundee Office Park, which is off Essex Street, all kinds of business, is brisk.

A group of investors purchased the 144,000-square-foot office park Aug. 1, and roughly 75 percent of it is now leased, according to Albert P. Manzi III, property manager. Construction is underway for two businesses that will move in Oct. 1, accounting for about 7,000 square feet. A third business signed a lease last Thursday, Sept. 5, for 9,000 square feet of office space.

"The showings have been constant," Mr. Manzi said.

Dundee Office Park LC purchased the property from Dundee Office Park Joint Venture, the primaries of which were Lawrence Savings Bank and Family Bank, for $2 million. The banks took the property in foreclosure in January 1993.

The Dundee Office Park LC property consists of three main brick buildings - former mill and textile buildings referred to as Building One, Two and Three - and two smaller white buildings, all toward the south end of Dundee Park. It does not include the first building off Essex Street, where Moor and Mountain outfitters is located, or the several other buildings on the north end of the property between the railroad tracks and the Shawsheen River. Those buildings have several different owners.

Mr. Manzi works for Ozzy Property Management, which has an office in Building One. He is a life-long resident of North Andover and a recent graduate of Merrimack College.

The two businesses coming into Building Two Oct. 1 are Droste Consulting, a computer consulting company moving from North Andover, and Specialty Filaments Inc., a manufacturer of toothbrush and paintbrush fibers. Droste will take about 3,000 square feet of space, and Specialty will occupy about 3,600 square feet of office space.

"This is going to be their headquarters," Mr. Manzi said of Specialty.

Elm Square Technologies signed a lease last Thursday for 9,000 square feet of office space in Building Three. It will move from its current quarters at 2 Elm Square.

There are still two 10,000-square-foot spaces available in Building Three, which Mr. Manzi said are drawing a lot of interest. He also said a fitness company is looking at taking space in one or both of the two white buildings at the back of the office park.

Other businesses

More than a dozen other businesses are already in the newly purchased space, some new and some that have been there a while.

One of the new stores is The Edge, a start-up sports equipment store owned by Shawsheen Road resident Mark Anderson. Another is The Cigar Emporium, a wholesale distributor of cigars. R+B Design Architecture, currently of North Andover, expects to move into its new space within the week.

Other businesses include PPM Associates, which provides network and video products; CFI Pro Services, a banking computer-equipment company; Varsity Swim Shop; FLP Enterprises Inc., a designer of medical equipment; Weiner's Inc.; New England Computer Supply; Ready Maids housekeepers; K R Graphics Inc.; A & W Builders; Cambridge Design Group Inc., a graphic design firm; Robert L. Lee, Ph.D., and Associates psychological counseling; Merrimack Valley Hospice and HomeCare Inc. offices; Cirrus Logic Inc., a computer company; KKO Associates Inc., a consulting and software company for the heavy transportation industry; Andover Psychotherapy; Le Studio De Ballet; Koffman Associates; law offices of Jamie Mauritz; Yang's Martial Arts Assoc.; JEMS Data Unlimited Inc., high speed storage solutions for computer applications specializing in audio video applications; General Psychological Associates; J.O.B. Finishing, furniture finishers and insurance adjusters for the moving industry; Artistic Performance hair salon; and ICM Inc. construction.

Flagship Commercial Real Estate of North Andover has brought in many of the new businesses, according to Mr. Manzi.

Landscaping

Despite all the new businesses, there won't be drastic changes in the outside appearance of the park itself.

"I think everybody values the historic qualities of the facilities and they want to keep it as such," Mr. Manzi said. "We do plan a lot of capital improvements."

The new owners will improve the parking lot and the main entrance. They will also upgrade existing signs and add signs to make it easier to find the various businesses in the park, and will invest in some landscaping, according to Mr. Manzi.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

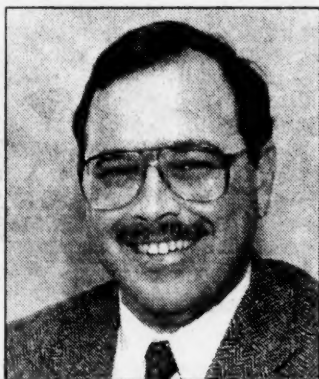

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

WAISTED EFFORT

The insurance industry has traditionally turned to height-weight tables as a measure of health when assessing mortality risk. However, a study recently published in the Journal Of The American Medical Association reveals that the size of the waist relative to the hips may be a better indicator. According to the research, the closer waist size approaches the circumference of the hips, the higher the risk of death from cancer, heart disease, and other illnesses. While being overweight in any form poses a risk to health, carrying excess weight around the waist is particularly harmful. Because calculating the ratio of waist size to hip size is more accurate in determining this risk than the standard method, waist-hip ratios should be a part of routine physicals. As this information relates to life insurance, some companies are quite liberal in their assessment of the overweight category, and will give "preferred" ratings even to those applicants who are quite heavy. Other companies are quite tough - in order to get a "preferred" rating, one must be slim and in nearly perfect health. We are well familiar with the differences between the companies - please let us be of assistance to you with this important aspect of your insurance planning.

Selectman pushes for 'friends of youth' group

By Don Staruk

Selectman Larry Larsen is looking for people to help raise funds to build a youth center in town.

"What I'm trying to do is to get started a group to raise money to start a youth center," or community center, Dr. Larsen said Monday of this week.

Methuen and North Andover each have a strong, organized group of adult volunteers for just that purpose, Dr. Larsen said. Andover needs one, he said.

Andover has such a group for seniors, Friends of the Senior Center, but nothing for kids, "and I'd like to see that get going," Dr. Larsen said.

He is not depending on government to provide such a group or the funds, Dr. Larsen said, adding that government tends to operate slowly "if at all."

"We don't need any more concepts or advice. We need people to raise money," Dr. Larsen said. "It's that simple. If anyone is interested, have them get in touch with my office."

Dr. Larsen said he will host an organizational breakfast for anyone interested in the new group within the next two weeks.

Dr. Larsen's office is at 68 Park St., and he can be reached at 475-6622.

Selectman Barenboim hanging it up

By Don Staruk

Three-term Selectman James Barenboim Monday night abruptly and publicly announced that he will not seek re-election in March.

Immediately on the heels of telling residents that he was sorry some of them felt they were not adequately informed about the progress of planned traffic changes on Route 28 at Phillips Academy, Mr. Barenboim blurted out, "The election is in March and I'm not running again."

"Nine years is enough," Mr. Barenboim said.

The decision was not made because of the discussion on the traffic issue, because Mr. Barenboim had told his fellow board members and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski some time ago of his intention not to run again, Mr. Stapczynski said Wednesday.

But his timing was typical of Mr. Barenboim's activity during his tenure on the board. It has not been unusual for Mr. Barenboim to become emotional about an issue, especially when people target the board or its ward, he said, it would be the board members. Selectmen chairman James Barenboim agreed.

Not everyone at the meeting was opposed to the changes.

"I'm here because I think it's a good plan," said Jane Griswold, of 14 Woodland Road and a former Zoning Board of Appeals member. "I'd like to see it happen."

At least one other resident there echoed her sentiments.

Chairman Barenboim said he sympathized with some residents who felt they were not well informed as to the progress of the project, but he also commended PA for their openness throughout the process.

Long process

Some residents, including Selectman Larry Larsen, said they were unaware of the public hearing that was held on the proposal and that residents were not given adequate opportunity for input. Neil Cullen, PA's chief financial officer, recited the history behind the project.

Two female PA students were struck and injured by a car as they crossed in a crosswalk on Route 28 at Chapel Avenue in May 1994. The accident spurred PA, town and state highway officials to began looking for a way to make the road through the campus safer.

They looked at constructing a pedestrian bridge or underpass, but decided it would be too difficult to find a way to funnel the students to such a crossing or crossings. Aesthetics were a major part of that decision, as corralling the pedestrians to keep them from crossing at other areas, PA officials decided, would require an inordinate amount of fencing. Overhead concrete walkways would also not be appropriate for what PA officials referred to as a gateway to downtown Andover.

The Academy funded a pedestrian safety study and finally decided to pursue the plan to reduce the stretch of roadway from Wheeler Street almost to Hidden Road from two lanes in each direction to one in each direction. Selectmen endorsed the plan in November 1994. They endorsed more complete plans again in May 1995, and sent a letter to Mass Highway in support of the project. The state approved funding the construction of the project in June 1995, on the condition that the town pay for the design plans. PA agreed to pay for those plans.

A public hearing on the proposal was held in the selectmen's conference room at town offices April 3 of this year, where final plans were presented and discussed. The project went out to bid in July and a contract was awarded Aug. 28 to J. Phelan Construction Inc.

The design allows for turning lanes at almost every curb cut along both sides of the roadway, and state-of-the-art traffic signals at three intersections - Salem Street, Chapel Avenue and Wheeler Street. The roadway will be narrowed by about two feet on each side by widening the median.

Engineers for the project said the new signals will be synchronized for efficient traffic flow, and that sensors will adjust the timing depending on the traffic flow.

Poetry workshops flourish in the Andover schools

By Christine McCarthy
South School PTO

Children in Andover enjoy an opportunity to develop superior writing skills. While most of their parents' training consisted of grammar and punctuation, fifth-grade students at South and Sanborn and at Lawrence's Rollins and Wetherbee schools learn more than composition skills. In special workshops, they experiment with metaphor, simile, and figurative expression.

For five years, Mary Chivers has been teaching fifth-grade students to compose and appreciate poetry. The professional poet and former high school English teacher began workshops with children at the urging of Joyce Ringleb, then a member of Sanborn School's PTO

Enrichment Committee, and Bonnie Browning, a fifth-grade teacher.

For every class, each student creates and illustrates at least one poem. To help them, the workshops are very focused, according to Ms. Chivers, "arranged around a theme that children can say something about" such as animals or a season. She lists specific assignments for each poem, elements that focus the children's work as they teach aspects of poetry. For the poem about an animal, the children must use similes, the first person, their five senses, feelings, and mood, write about movement, and define the setting, weather, and time of year. Ms. Chivers also reads examples of successful published and student poems on the theme, discussing the images and their meanings.

"Having the children work with a poet is important," says Gwen Warwick, who teaches fifth grade at South. "This poet is someone the children can relate to, which makes writing poetry attainable for them. She also works with them in a very positive fashion." When critiquing the poems, Ms. Chivers always focuses on the successes. "And

Pike begins classes with record enrollment

Classes began at Pike School Monday Sept. 9, for 410 students from 28 communities in the Merrimack Valley. This number represents a full enrollment for the school, now in its 70th year of operation.

Following the trend in independent schools across the nation, the number of applicants to Pike continues to increase. Although the school has opened with a record high enrollment, the addition of a full-time learning specialist has enabled the school to maintain its one-to-eight faculty-student ratio.

As well as increasing the number of classroom faculty, Pike continues to be a leader among schools in using computers as an integral learning tool, a spokesman said. The purchase of nearly 50 new computers and 25 new printers means that there is an average of four computers in each classroom, or one computer for every five students in the school.

All machines throughout the school are networked. The process of automating the Pike library is nearing completion. The school has installed a new weather station for collecting scientific data, which will be available on the Internet. Dozens of new software programs have been purchased for use in Pike's classrooms and libraries.

Once again, students entering Pike's Upper School began their year with a two-day orientation program. Fifty-two new and returning sixth-graders spent Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 3 and 4, in a campus program directed by staff from Kieve Leadership Decisions Institute in Nobleboro, Maine. Activities were designed to introduce a sense of community within this group, something that sixth grade advisers will continue to develop throughout the year.

Pike is an independent coed day school that enrolls students in pre-kindergarten through grade 9.

The contents of one Andover's most historic homes, at Chestnut and Central streets, will be sold at public auction Saturday, Sept. 21. The Kneeland-Marland House - known today as Rose Cottage - was where Revolutionary patriot John Kneeland officially welcomed Lafayette in 1825 when he came with Josiah Quincy to address the students of Phillips Academy in Andover. The home contains generations of furniture and fine accessories from the Coffin family. "In cataloguing this estate, we have spent days just emptying trunks, drawers, closets and boxes," said Michael C. Bider III, auctioneer. "Many of the items have not seen the light of day for over a hundred years." Rose Cottage is small in scale, but packed with generations of family heirlooms, he said. In line with the scale of the house, there are several doll's tea sets and many miniatures including portraits on ivory. The entire contents will be sold at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 21. A preview will be held Friday, Sept. 20, from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m., and from 8 a.m. until 10 a.m. on the day of sale. For details, call Bider's at 475-8336.

shape their experience to see its value for themselves and others. Sometimes this can provide space between the child and a difficult experience, Ms. Chivers says.

Ms. Browning agrees, "I've known children to deal with serious illness or death in their family through their poetry."

Another goal is to help the class listen to and value each other. "Students are astonished at the quality of each others' work. Regardless of their disabilities, children can make poems," says Ms. Chivers. Each child completes a book of at least five poems and contributes one poem to a class volume. The sharing and mutual appreciation also unites the class.

When preparing her workshops, Ms.

Chivers incorporates themes from the standard curriculum. But figurative language also improves students' other writing. According to Ms. Browning, "Poetry teaches them to experiment with figurative language and learn to use it successfully. This expands the writing techniques available for their regular prose in research reports, social science papers, and so forth." Ms. Chivers' method of observing details, then giving shape and structure to observations, is the same process necessary for work in the sciences and social sciences.

The success of Mary Chivers' techniques is evident in her students' work, which consistently wins awards in poetry contests. But the most important prize for all her students is their new mastery of creative expression.

AAUW encourages gender equity

Attention public school teachers of math, science or technology classes in grades K-12, with an interest or commitment to educational equity.

The local branch of the American Association of University Women will present an informative meeting for public K-12 math and science teachers Wednesday, Sept. 18, at Memorial Hall Library from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The program, "Funds for Innovations in Teaching" will feature Judy Donovan, a local teacher and past fellowship recipient, who will highlight her teaching initiative, which earned her recognition by AAUW. She was awarded an Eleanor Roosevelt Fellowship, one of AAUW's awards for teaching innovations in the classroom, school district or community. In 1995-'96, AAUW awarded $116,125 in grants, ranging from $1,000 to $10,000.

The Eleanor Roosevelt Initiative is perhaps most noted for its funding of the recently released Growing Smart - What's Working for Girls in Schools, a summary of 500 studies and cases. The aim of this initiative is to support individuals, communities, and programs that promote healthy development and achievements of girls.

If you are a K-12 teacher, organizers said, this program is sure to provide information about available funding to support your classroom innovations.

The American Association of University Women is an organization that promotes education and equity. For more information call Alease Bruce at 475-3221.

Andover's Greek Festival: A community with outstretched arms

By J. Colin Sullivan

Every year on the weekend after Labor Day, the Greek Festival at Saints Constantine and Helen Church gathers people from all over the Merrimack Valley, from as far away as Lynn, Boston and beyond, for a celebration.

The festival has been held annually at the church, located on Chandler Road just before North Street in West Andover, for the last 10 years. Before 1986, the festival was held for eight years at the church's former location, on Essex Street in Lawrence.

In 1986 the community moved to the site of what was once Doyle Lumber. Then, the area gave off the smell of fresh-cut wood from the lumber yard. Last weekend the scent of honey and nuts from baklava and diples, sweet Greek pastries, lured thousand of hungry celebrants.

Voula Nikitas, chairman of the banquet, explained that volunteers have been working all summer preparing the food and getting everything ready. She noted that the spanakopitas, spinach pies, and tyropitas, cheese pies, were started as far back as July 20. In all, more than 4,000 pastries were made for the festival.

But there's more. Besides spanakopita, baklava and diples, there were kids' toys, lamps, and old typewriters to collect and, in some cases, fix up, so they could be sold at "Yaya's (Granny's) Attic" — a thrift store run by Irene Coconis, Anne Coconis, Iris Sarantos, Irene Zanetos, Adrienne Casselle, Christina Contos and Georgia Contos. When asked how many hours they have devoted, Mrs. Coconis laughed, "Too few to even mention." Fr. Paul Pantelis, presybetera katina, head priest of Sts. Constantine and Helen, said that the hours have been "ungodly."

During the Greek Festival at Saints Constantine and Helen Church last weekend, Fr. Paul Pantelis, presybetera katina, head priest, gave tours of the church.

Andover's Greek Festival weekend

More than 150 people made the event possible, he said.

On Saturday, the first day of the festival, three tents teemed with people reaching for food. Under the fast-food tent, John Housiantas, a teacher in Lawrence, grilled up gyros, spiced lamb and steak pita pockets, topped with tomatoes and lettuce, covered in a cucumber sauce, "made with love," as Mr. Housiantas said.

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, could be seen picking up stray trays under the giant green-and-white-striped tent, and relieving Mr. Housiantas from the grills.

During the day Fr. Paul gave tours of the church itself, fielding questions from first time visitors about the ornate iconostasis, a series of effigies of the church figures; about the overwhelming mosaic of the Blessed Virgin Mary with outstretched arms – a mosaic shipped piece-by-piece from the artist in Italy; and about the Greek Orthodox Church in general. Jeannia Sintros of Shawsheen Road described the setting as "beautiful and simple." She was showing the church to her daughter's friend, Pam Risseuw of Aspen Circle.

The crowd got larger as the day turned to night. People pushed their way past tables of vendors selling everything from sports hats to cosmetics. At the Greek table, Carol Christakos and Sylvia Diamond displayed the crafts they made since last year's festival.

But the pushing stopped when students from Sts. Constantine and Helen Greek School, taught by Kanella Zaralides, took the stage to show off their traditional Greek outfits and dances. Leo Ginnapoulos, 13, of Dracut, one of the student-dancers of the evening, explained while waiting for his dance that his costume was that of an evsones, a Greek soldier at least six feet tall.

Despite the poor weather on Sunday, the Greek Festival's dancing, music and eating went on. Few seemed disheartened.

Mary Kuliopulos, a festival volunteer, summed up the festival's purpose best when she said, "It is a community event to get everyone, not only Greek people, but everyone in the area, to see the Greek tradition."

HANDS ON TRAINING FOR TOMORROW!

Bob is learning all about heavy equipment.

Celebrating Over 30 Years of Excellence

At Greater Lawrence Technical School students are provided with technical training in a field of their choice. The future always looks bright for our graduates because they enter the work force with the hands-on training required by employers. Many students participate in Co-Op programs where they earn money working in an entry level job while learning academic material and classwork on the other week.

We are proud to say that over the past thirty years, the majority of our graduates have gone into their field of choice right after graduation. Others have continued their training in college.

'Strike up the band!'

This group gathered late last week to pass a check in honor of Andover's 350th Parade. Here's how it happened. The Andover Townsman decided to give its float budget money for Sunday's 350th parade to the Andover High School Marching Band and the AHS cheerleaders. In this photo, Townsman editor Perry Colmore, second from right, hands a check for $500 to Beth Shiff, cheerleading coach. The newspaper gave the band $1,500. Others in the photo are, from left, Dennis O'Brien, drum major at AHS; Ms. Shiff; Ms. Colmore; Wendy Gillespie, president of the AHS Band Parents Association; and in front, cheerleaders Sarah Plamondon and Mara Shiff. Mark Napierkowski, band director, was unable to be present. Cheerleaders will give out Townsman balloons during the parade and the color guard will carry a banner in front of the band saying, "The Townsman proudly sponsors the Andover High School Marching Band." "And we certainly are proud to sponsor this group," said Ms. Colmore. "Strike up the band!" ▶ end and has invited its members, as well as those from the classes of '50 and '52, to join them in front of Old Town Hall on Main Street to watch the parade.

John Lewis, town veterans agent, has invited all local veterans of the armed forces to participate in the parade. The veterans, in uniform or dress of their own choice, can ride a number of World War II military vehicles, or march along side the vehicles. Veterans should park their cars at the end of the parade route, in the Brickstone Square lot, and take a shuttle bus to the start area at Phillips Academy on Main Street by 12:30 p.m.

At 1 p.m., Bektash Shriners clowns will start down the parade route to warm up the crowd. They will be followed by the Bektash Calliope (organ) unit at 1:15 and the rest of the parade at 1:30.

Three divisions

Three divisions will celebrate Andover's past, present and future, according to Mr. Doherty. Each division features color guards, bands, community organizations, schools, church groups, ethnic societies, historic vehicles and other attractions.

Music will fill the air at every point along the parade route. The Boston College "Screaming Eagles" Marching Band and the University of Massachusetts Minuteman Marching Band from Amherst will join the United States Air Force Band from Hanscom Field and high school bands from Andover and North Andover.

Mummers from the Philadelphia area, the Clan McPherson Pipe

Band and the 1797 Marine Detachment Fife and Drum Corps will be among the many other bands. No parade is complete without a host of colorful floats. The

Main Street closed this Sunday

Roads will close early and long for parade

By Don Staruk

The bottom line is, Main Street between Phillips Academy and Shawsheen Square will be closed to vehicle traffic this Sunday, Sept. 15, from about noon to at least 4 p.m., and possibly until 6 p.m.

Even though the parade should be over by about 4 p.m., it may take some time to clean up afterward. Organizers and public safety officials are asking residents and others to find alternate routes around Main Street and North Main Street through 6 p.m.

The parade starts at 1:30 on South Main Street at Salem Street. It proceeds down Main Street through the downtown and Elm Square, and continues down North Main Street to Shawsheen Square. There it will turn right onto Haverhill Street for about 1/4 mile before turning left onto York Street and ending in the Brickstone Square parking lot.

Police were warning residents of Washington Park apartments, Frye Circle, Castle Heights Road and other areas that will be hemmed in by the parade to make any necessary preparations for being trapped, or for getting out ahead of time.

"I hope people read the paper. There's been enough publicity about this," said Lt. Phillip Froburg, operations commander for the Andover Police Department.

Businesses stymied by the parade, such as those in Shawsheen Plaza, have also been warned about the disruption, according to Lt. Froburg. Some, such as Shawsheen Plaza Sunoco, will close at noon.

Cars parked in the plaza may be blocked in for the afternoon, since there is no other way out of the lot. Harding Street remains closed for bridge construction.

Street closings

Streets in the PA area will close early, beginning with the closing of the northbound lane of South Main Street, from Dwight Street to Wheeler Street, at 9:30 a.m. Two-way traffic will be allowed in the southbound lane through that area until about noon.

All streets accessing Main Street and North Main Street to Shawsheen Square will close at about noon.

Closings include:

• At 10 a.m., Chapel Avenue at South Main; Salem Street at Holt

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, begins tomorrow, Friday evening

By Rabbi Robert S. Goldstein
Temple Emanuel
of Andover

There is an old story told of the great teacher, Rabbi Sussya of Hanipol. Shortly before his days on earth ended, he was asked by his loyal disciples what he feared most about his impending death.

"I am not afraid that the Heavenly Judge will ask me, 'Why were you not like Moses? Why didn't you lead your people back to the Holy Land as Moses did?' I am not afraid I will be asked, 'Why were you not like Isaiah, speaking words of fire that would turn your people away from sin?' I am not afraid to be asked, 'Why weren't you like Maimonides, a great scholar and healer of bodies and souls.' I am most fearful of a question more difficult than any other. What shall I say when I am asked, 'Sussya, why weren't you Sussya?' Then what shall I say?"

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, which begins tomorrow, Friday evening, Sept. 13, and continues Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 14 and 15, and Yom Kippur, which falls on Sunday evening and all day Monday, Sept. 22 and 23, are the holiest days on the Jewish calendar. It is the time of the year when every Jew is urged to take a "spiritual inventory" of their lives, to ask themselves, "Who am I, really?" If we discover, after plumbing to the depths of our being, that the distance between who we are and how we act is so great, then it is time to reconcile the two parts of our being into one.

Most Jewish holy days are home-centered. Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur revolve around the synagogue and community. One can not observe these days alone. It is a communal enterprise (take a look at the parking lot of any temple on Yom Kippur morning) where Rabbi and congregant alike seek to prod each other a bit and from each other find the inspiration to imbue our holiday prayers, and in turn our lives, with meaning, purpose and ultimately reconciliation.

On Rosh Hashana

we must honestly weigh the important relationships in our lives; to consider our connection to parents and children; to evaluate our faith in ourselves and in our God.

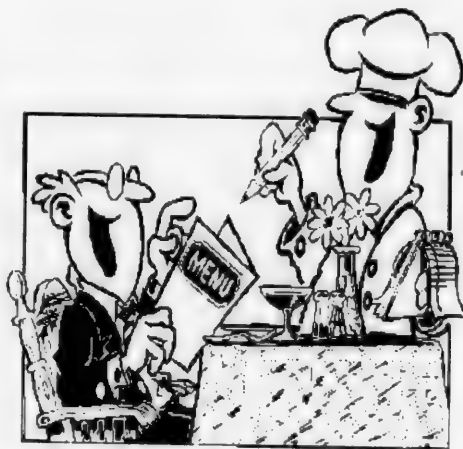

Our goal is to emerge from these sacred days stronger, with a greater degree of spiritual and emotional harmony, ready to meet the challenges of a new year, with renewed hope, faith and a desire to make our lives and our world a better place for all to live.

Cradle Roll is a celebration and learning experience to Jewish families. The Temple Emanuel Nursery School is proud to offer a hands-on workshop focusing on the celebration of the New Year and Succot for 3-, 4- and 5-year-olds and their parents Sunday, Sept. 29, at 9 a.m. This fun-filled hour is open to the community and will include craft projects, storytelling, singing and a delicious sweet snack to celebrate the holiday. There will be a $5 fee, which may be paid at the door.

*Consider
These Thoughts*

by Garry A. Burke

PRESENT TENSION

Living in the present offers, perhaps, the most direct route to joy and bliss. Unconnected to the regrets of the past and anxiety over the future, the present is not alloyed with unnecessary emotion. Those who are able to live in the moment can string these moments together into an unfettered reality. Failure to do so carries its price. As Blaise Pascal wrote: "Let any man examine his thoughts, and he will find them ever occupied with the past or the future. We scarcely think at all of the present; or if we do, it is only to borrow the light which it gives for regulating the future. The present is never our object; the past and the present we use as means; the future only is our end. Thus, we never live, we only hope to live."

It has often been said that funerals are for the living, and that's certainly true. A funeral is an important event in family life because it gives us a way to honor the life and memory of those dear to us. Here at BURKE FUNERAL HOME, we encourage pre-arrangements because, generally, when the time comes for people to make this major purchase, they are often emotionally unable to do it wisely and prudently. To find out more about pre-arrangement, call us at 475-5200. We are located at 390 North Main Street. Congratulations Andover on your 350th Birthday!

QUOTE: "The future is purchased by the present."
Samuel Johnson

William J. "Bill" McNeil, 71

William J. "Bill" McNeil, 71, of Medford, died Tuesday, Aug. 20 following a 2 year battle with lung cancer and emphysema.

Bill was born to Scottish-Canadian immigrant parents, the late Gerald & Catherine McNeil, Feb. 19, 1925, in Quincy.

He was raised & spent most of his life in Somerville. Bill was a long-time member of St. Benedicts Parish and attended Little Flower School, as did his daughters.

On January 23, 1944, Bill married the former Hazel M. Bassett and they celebrated their 52nd anniversary this year. Bill is lovingly remembered by his daughters, Anne M. Palmer (Mrs. Phil Palmer) of Weymouth, Lynda Catherine McNeil (Mrs. Brad Pearson) of Andover and Sharon McNeil of Concord.

"Papa" was beloved by many grandchildren including, Jill Anzivino, Wendy Heidenreich of Canton, and Holly, Adam & Joy Ruma, and Sarah Pearson, all of Andover, Mass. He was also the proud great grandfather of Ryan Bassett, also of Andover. Sister Eileen Todd of Medford is his only surviving sibling.

Bill was a lifelong truck driver and was employed by Ryerson Steel, Allston and a member of Teamsters

Union, local 379 for more than 40 years.

He was always working at home or on the job to make a better life for his family or helping someone out. A self-taught handyman, he would move walls, add doors, windows, build furniture and cabinets.

His favorite project was building the sunroom on his home, where he enjoyed watching television, especially westerns, sitting in this favorite recliner and even riding his exercise bike during his last two years.

Despite increasing limitations, he still wanted to help his daughters with work around the house and to spend time with his grandchildren. He was always tinkering with a car, but his favorite was his Cadillac!

His family & friends will remember Bill fondly, his patience, sense of humor, and his ever present baseball hat.

Bill's funeral Mass was celebrated Sat. Aug. 24 at St. Joseph Church, Medford. Services concluded at Mt. Auburn Cemetery & arrangements were made by Dello Russo Funeral home. Expressions of sympathy may be sent to American Cancer Society, 654 Beacon St. Boston, MA 02215 members for criticism, as they did Monday night. Although he may have planned to announce his plans Monday or some other time soon, his statements seemed to be brought to the surface by the discussion preceding them.

After the meeting Mr. Barenboim joked about his announcement, saying he had told his wife, Maureen, of his intention not to run again, but that she didn't believe him.

"My wife just did three somersaults at home," he said, referring to the fact that the meeting and his comments had been broadcast on cable television. "She said I was just kidding at home and that I'd never do it."

Mr. Barenboim's announcement means there may be two spots open on the five-member board this spring. Selectman Barry Finegold, who is running for the state representative slot being vacated by Gary Coon, told the Townsmen this week he will likely resign his seat on the board if elected to the House. If he wins, and since he would not take office until January, it is probable that Mr. Finegold would finish his second year of the three-year term, carrying the board through until the election in March. Mr. Finegold was first elected to the board in March 1995.

Mr. Barenboim was first elected in March 1988.

Former Selectman Charles Wesson Jr., who was defeated in his bid for re-election by Mr. Finegold in 1995, could not be reached at press time to say whether he would run again. Mr. Wesson served two terms before losing to Mr. Finegold.

Selectman Gerald Silverman has been this would be his last term, but he has said that before and not stuck to it.

Selectman Larry Larsen was first elected to the board in 1991. His second term also ends in March 1997. Dr.

Larsen has not indicated whether he will run again.

Selectman William Downs has been on the board since 1987 and is up for re-election in 1999.

Jay Leno coming to Andover

By Neil Fater

Emmy winner and Tonight Show host Jay Leno will be busy signing with his pen Oct. 13 at the Andover Book Store.

The Andover student-turned-star will return to his hometown as part of a national tour promoting his new book Leading with My Chin.

"We have quite a list already" of people who want to buy the book, said Julie Carlson, assistant manager of the book store. "We imagine there'll be a long line. People should be prepared for that. It will be Jay Day."

There was almost no signing day here at all. The original five-city author tour didn't even include a stop in Boston. But the book store took a chance and sent a letter to the publisher requesting an appearance. Apparently Mr. Leno found out about the letter and agreed to come, said Ms. Carlson.

Besides talking about the absurdity of celebrity, Leading with My Chin features stories about Mr. Leno's early years, his time as a mechanic, and his years as a stand-up comedian. The book is 224 pages and costs $22.

The book store has asked Bernice Haggerty of Andover Street, a long-time friend of both the store and Mr. Leno, to serve as a hostess for the book signing, said Ms. Carlson.

Ms. Haggerty has known Mr. Leno since he was a child.

"My daughter (Nancy) went to school with him right from the third grade," said Ms. Haggerty. "He was a friend of hers and became a friend of mine."

Ms. Haggerty and her family followed Mr. Leno's career during his night club years and she was in California the day he took the heavy Tonight Show reins from Johnny Carson.

She looks forward to seeing him and says Mr. Leno's fame has not changed him or his relationship with his friends in Andover.

"He's really our Jay and he never acts any differently when he comes home," she said. "He doesn't like people to make a big deal of him, really."

Resident swims Boston Harbor: 22 miles

By J. Colin Sullivan

Terry Sievers of Andover bravely plunged into the Boston Harbor waters off of the JFK Library in Dorchester on Friday, Sept. 6, and swam toward the open ocean.

Ms. Sievers was participating in "Swim Across America," a non-profit swim-a-thon dedicated to raising money for cancer research, prevention and treat-

"It was cold," Ms. Sievers said. "The harbor was clean. No jelly fish."

Although she spent more than an hour and a half in the water, she confessed, "It was so much fun, a lot more than I'd anticipated."

The swim itself consisted of a 22-mile relay race beginning at the JFK Library, then swimming out to Graves Point lighthouse and back to Rowe's Wharf on Boston's Atlantic Avenue.

Other members of her relay team included Brook Bennett, gold medalist in Atlanta, and Scott Jaffe, bronze medalist.

The race began at 5:30 in the morning and lasted until 3 p.m. Each swimmer on the four person teams swam four miles; the Olympians swam five miles.

Farber. She trained at Camp Evergreen in Andover while the North Andover YMCA's pool was closed.

More than $50,000 was raised by this race. All proceeds went to the David B. Perini Clinic that cares for survivors of childhood cancer. Pledges can be made out to "Swim Across America" and mailed to 30 Bullard St., Walpole, Mass. 02108.

Ms. Sievers and her husband, Tony, moved to Andover from Bedford, Mass. a year and a half ago. They have two children, Joy and Nick.

Finegold-Parsons race tops Tuesday's ballot

p.m. at two locations.

Registered voters from precincts 1, 3 and 8 will cast their ballots at the Senior Center at Whittier Court, off Chestnut Street.

People from precincts 2, 4, 5, 6 and 7 will vote at the new Andover High gymnasium at the end of the building farthest from Shawsheen Road.

For those driving to Andover High, parking and the entrance to the polling place will be behind the new gymnasium, according to the town clerk's office.

A round-trip shuttle-bus service between the Senior Center and the High School will also be available. The bus route runs along Bartlet Street, Chestnut, North Main, including Frye Circle, Lowell Street and Shawsheen Road.

The first bus will leave the Senior Center at 8:05 a.m. and arrive at the school at 8:16 a.m. A bus will leave Andover High at 8:26 a.m. and arrive back at the Senior Center at 8:37 a.m. Buses will run every 35 to 55 minutes with the final bus leaving the High School at 6:16 p.m. and returning to Whittier Court at 6:26 p.m.

Gary Coon's state rep. seat

With only a handful of days remaining before Tuesday's primary, Denise Parsons and Barry Finegold are making their final run at winning the Democratic nod for the 17th Essex District's state representative.

Mr. Finegold is continuing to go laugh. It's much more positive than standing (with a political sign) on a street corner."

Both candidates intend to have supporters hold signs and make phone calls to get out their vote. They have their final debate before the primary today, Thursday, at Continental Cablevision, and will have the opportunity to ask each other questions. [Editor's note: Townsman reporter Neil Fater will participate in the cablevision debate, asking the candidates questions.]

The candidates also attended a forum Friday, Sept. 6, at the Andover Senior Center. (See related story, page 1).

Andover residents who live in the fifth district will not vote in this race. They are currently represented by Democrat Edward A. LeLacheur, who is running unopposed on the Democratic ballot. There is no Republican candidate running against Mr. LeLacheur for the 18th Middlesex District.

Republican ballot

In fact, there aren't any Republican candidates in three other races. Andover's Republican voters have no official candidates running for the Fifth District's U.S. Congressional seat, for state senator representing the 2nd Essex and Middlesex District, or for Essex County commissioner.

Running unopposed in the Republican primary are Gov. William F. Weld for U.S. Senate; Kevin J. Leach, of Manchester-by-the-Sea, for Governor's door to door to talk with people, although he'll rely heavily on his campaign team this weekend. Mr. Finegold will be off the campaign trail all of Saturday and a portion of Friday and Sunday in observance of the Jewish holiday, Rosh Hashana, he said.

Ms. Parsons said she and her supporters are using what they call "car caravans," cars decorated with political signs and streamers to attract attention to the Parsons campaign. A Parsons caravan was in Lawrence Monday honking horns and giving out freeze pops to children.

"It's really kind of fun. You go through a neighborhood beeping and everyone waves," said Ms. Parsons. "They always wave and they always Council; James Fox of Andover for state representative of the 17th Essex District; and George K. Mazareas of Lynn for Essex County treasurer.

The only contested Republican primary race is for the Essex County register of probate. This race is between incumbent Jane Brady Stirgwoit of Salem, a former city councilor, and Susan M. Brothie, of Peabody.

Democratic national and state positions

Topping the Democratic ballot is incumbent John F. Kerry, who is unopposed within his party but will face a stiff challenge from Gov. Weld in November.

In the race for Governor's Council, incumbent Patricia Dowling of Lawrence is challenged by Lynn's James P. Mahoney. Accent Alley
5 Kelley Road
Salem, N.H.
Tel. (603) 898-7078

Hours: Tuesday through Saturday, 10-5; Sunday, 12-5.

Accent Alley caters to a clientele who know that beauty, refinement and elegance in decor are often defined by the smallest details. Whether they're looking for a unique gift or searching for a finishing touch to complement their own home, Accent Alley will be able to provide it.

Word of mouth has been Accent Alley's greatest asset. People can't wait to tell their friends about the latest objects that Joanne has found, fallen in love with and brought to her store. A list including pewter wine glasses, lamps, mirrors, urns, prints, baskets, candles, pedestals and bath accouterments would only touch the service.

Customers often mention that they feel they have wandered into the midst of a romantic fairy tale. With a few careful questions, Joanne can often show them how to recreated that effect in their own homes. If they're still unsure, Joanne will bring her skill and passion directly to their homes.

Isn't it time you put the finishing touches on your home? A few small details can mean the difference between a nice home and one that is truly refined in its beauty and elegance.

Perhaps best of all, the experienced staff will gift wrap your choice for you in the gold foil and plum ribbon that has been an Accent Alley hallmark since the store first opened in Windham in 1991.

After 18 months of operation, M.V.S.C., formerly known as Merrimack Valley Saab Center, has continued to blossom in providing top notch service to Saab owners and drivers.

During 1996, a name change caused some confusion to existing and new customers in trying to contact us. In spite of this consideration, the business continues to flourish.

Bob Thompson, Rosario Nicotra and Tom O'Brien, who started the operation in February 1995, are now known as M.V.S.C. Independent Saab Repair Specialists, located at 659 Haverhill St., Lawrence, Mass., (508) 681-8245.

M.V.S.C.

We extend a sincere level of thanks and appreciation to our existing customers, with an eye toward attracting new customers based on the level of customer satisfaction we have demonstrated during the last year and a half.

Our operative term is credibility, and our customers agree with this assessment. If you have not been to us before, we look forward to seeing you and servicing your Saab in the very near future.

Healthy after school snacks kids can make (NAPS) – Before dropping their book bags, many children race to the refrigerator for an after-school snack.

They may not stop to see if their snacks have much nutritional value. Teaching children how to make their own snacks increases the odds they'll make healthy choices.

Start with the basics:

- Kids in the kitchen should be old enough to reach the counter and operate simple kitchen equipment, such as a can opener, blender and microwave. If not, put older kids in charge or open items in advance and store in plastic containers.

- Show kids how to be safe in your kitchen. Make sure they know to leave the blender lid ON while it is operating.

- Keep hot pads handy and insist children use them.

- Teach kids which items can and cannot go into the microwave.

- Keep quick and easy items available, such as peanut butter, jelly, tortillas, microwave popcorn, string cheese, small cans of tuna, mild salsa, yogurt, applesauce, canned pineapple, apples, bananas and lettuce.

For starters, teach kids how to make their own Pineapple S'Mores—a classic treat with a twist. With a few simple instructions, and nothing to cut, kids can microwave this sweet tangy low-fat treat at a moment's notice.

Pineapple S'mores

Prep: 10min.

Makes: 4 servings

16 honey or chocolate graham cracker squares

1 cup miniature marshmallows

2 tablespoons butterscotch, chocolate or peanut butter chips

1 can (8 oz.) dole Crushed Pineapple, well drained

- Arrange 8 graham crackers in single layer in 8-inch square, microwave-safe dish. Evenly spoon marshmallows, butterscotch chips and pine-apple over crackers.

- Microwave on HIGH 1 minute or until pineapple is slightly warm. Let stand 1 minute to cool. Place remaining crackers on top of each square.

It's hip to be square this fall

(NAPS) – What's the look you're likely to see among the smart set this fall season?

According to some trend setters and those who study them, it's hip to be square—to wear quilting squares, that is.

Today, techno textures of vinyl and nylon as well as luxurious satins, leathers and suedes are stitched into the plushness of quilted designs.

To complement the richness of these fabrics, color moves into something more elegant and luxurious, yet contemporary. "We see brown becoming the basic for fall, replacing black, while plums become the new accent. Add to that a hint of iridescence, depth and shimmer to enhance what was once a mere neutral," explains Pam Gill Alabaster, Vice President of Marketing for L'Oréal. Together with the sleek silhouettes of fashion these new shades and textures work well with the "cyber" fabrics worn on and off the ski slopes.

As for cosmetics to go with these fabrics and silhouettes, the emphasis is on elegant, sophisticated versatility, from dramatic to natural. Go light by day, dark by night, or shy one day, bold the next. You can be as subtle or as intense as your mood dictates, opting for either a cool, mauve-plum palette or warm, honey-bronzed shades. Both choices offer light, pale tones to rich, deep hues.

For example, L'Oréal's fall promotion "Who's the Squarest of Them All?" features Colour Suprême Long Wearing Lipcolour in four new shades: a pale nude Hip Honey, deeply delicious Brown Sugar, intoxicating So Merlot or a hint of Fresco.

Coordinate with a Lip Precision Automatic Lip Liner in Basic Browns and Berries/Mauves. All lipcolours are coordinated with new matching shades of Colour Riche Long Wearing Nail Enamel.

Soft Effects Eyecolour in Sand (to highlight) and Eggplant (to contour) increase your options. Both shades coordinate with the new Super Liner Perfect Tip Eyelining Pen in Soft Taupe.

Use a light touch for a natural look or a more intense stroke for a dramatically defined look. For a finishing touch, you may try Blushesse Endless Colour Powder Blush in Café au Lait.

With such vibrant or subtle colors on your face and at your fingertips, you'll be asking yourself "who's the squarest of them all?"

Candidates' differences

Senior Center and follow-up interviews by the Townsmen indicate Mr. Finegold and Ms. Parsons have different approaches regarding two of the five issues on which Mr. Finegold bases his campaign. These two issues are buying open land and cutting taxes.

"My main stand is I'm not going to promise lower taxes," said Ms. Parsons, who claims Mr. Finegold fell through with a promise to lower residential taxes in Andover. "What I will do is try to look for any type of way to trim the taxes. But I can't promise."

Mr. Finegold notes he was the only selectman to vote against lowering the business tax rate, which increased the tax burden to residents.

Although he falls short of promising a state tax cut, Mr. Finegold does talk of lowering the state sales tax in this district. Ms. Parsons avoids committing to any type of tax cut.

Forum issues

Both candidates, along with Republican James Fox and state Sen. John O'Brien (D-Andover), were asked about the state sales tax at the Senior Center forum.

Mr. Finegold mentioned the possibility of the sliding scale of tax rates for communities such as Andover and Lawrence that are close to New Hampshire.

"I'm not sure how much longer the retail store (can continue) with people going up to the Rockingham Mall," he said. "I think it is an issue that will be discussed."

Sen. O'Brien said he questioned the constitutionality of varying sales tax rates and Mr. Finegold yesterday acknowledged that problem.

"I do agree with Sen. O'Brien. This could be a constitutional issue but I think that issue (lowering the sales tax) needs to be re-examined," said Mr. Finegold.

While Mr. Fox said the state should bring down the sales tax uniformly across the state over a 10-year period, Ms. Parsons avoided talk of lower taxes and instead put responsibility on individuals to invest in their town's businesses.

"It's up to people where they want to shop," she said. "We should be interested in helping them (local businesses)."

"We need to try to encourage that - shopping locally," Ms. Parsons repeated Tuesday. "But I wouldn't agree with decreasing a sales tax across the border (towns). You have to keep a fixed rate tax in the state of Massachusetts."

Although the candidates seem to differ on the issues of taxes and buying open land, Ms. Parsons does agree with the other points on Mr. Finegold's five-point legislative agenda.

Mr. Finegold has made the economic development of areas such as the River Road industrial area a priority and takes credit for helping to bring companies such as Putnam Investments and Genetics here. Ms. Parsons said she will focus on bringing more businesses to the district, too.

"I'd like to take my experience from the Andover Center Association and use that to attract larger companies to River Road and some of the mill space in Lawrence," she said. Ms. Parsons worked as a part-time administrative director for the Andover Center Association before resigning this spring.

Another of Mr. Finegold's plans is to use state money to expand the community policing programs and Ms. Parsons supports this decision. She also wants to "lend" state police to Lawrence or hire more state police to serve in that area, she said.

In addition, Ms. Parsons favors Mr. Finegold's final agenda item to build a bike path in Andover similar to the widely-used Minuteman Trail in the Greater Boston area.

"I think that's a wonderful concept. I haven't researched it," she said.

Madhu Sridhar, president of the League of Women Voters of Andover and North Andover, was the time-keeper for last week's debate.

Personal differences

During the campaign, Ms. Parsons said repeatedly she wants to highlight the differences between herself and primary opponent Mr. Finegold. Her campaign literature and many of her comments focus on their personal differences.

She's noted she's an Andover parent and homeowner. Mr. Finegold is not. He's a single, 25-year-old Andover selectman who lives in his parents' home.

In her opening remarks at a recent candidates forum, Ms. Parsons said, "I regard this position as a full-time job. (It's) very important that I bring this up."

When he announced he was running, Mr. Finegold said he planned to remain a selectman and keep his job at AccuBanc Mortgage Corp.

Yesterday, Wednesday, Mr. Finegold said he will cut back his hours at AccuBanc. He also said he wants to complete his final year as a selectman but believes he will probably have to give up the position.

"I'll be a full-time representative," he said. "I don't think there's anybody in town that questions my commitment to (the) people."

Mr. Finegold is the only selectman to hold office hours to talk with his constituents.

Personal differences aside, Mr. Finegold and Ms. Parsons do agree on many of the issues asked about during the candidate's forum at the Senior Center.

Both like the program that gives senior citizens tax vouchers for doing volunteer work and support expanding the program to the state level. Both also said the state needs to monitor HMOs and both are opposed to cutting programs such as Medicaid and Medicare.

Parsons banks on criticizing Finegold's record

By Neil Fater

With time running down in her campaign and in a candidates' forum at the Andover Senior Center Friday, Sept. 6, Denise Parsons used her closing remarks to try to clock fellow Democrat Barry Finegold.

Ms. Parsons accused her primary opponent of making promises to get elected - such as lowering taxes - and of misrepresenting himself by saying he's a mortgage banker.

After the closing remarks, Mr. Finegold denied both those charges, saying they were a sign of "a desperate campaign."

"Before I worked for AccuBanc, I worked for Mercantile Bank. But a mortgage banker does not have to be licensed. That is absolutely not true," said Mr. Finegold, disputing the misrepresentation charge.

Mr. Finegold also said the town has not taxed to the levy limit while he's been a selectman. The year before Mr. Finegold was elected, the town passed an override of Proposition 2½, a tax-limiting state law, to fund a then-$40.5 million school building project.

Mr. Finegold and Ms. Parsons will face off in the Democratic primary Tuesday, Sept. 17. To begin her closing remarks Friday, Ms. Parsons said because the primary is so soon it's important for her to show the differences between herself and Mr. Finegold.

When Mr. Finegold was running for selectmen he said he'd lower taxes, noted Ms. Parsons. Now that he's running for state representative his first agenda item is again to lower or maintain taxes, she noted.

"I will not promise that because I don't know if I can deliver," said Ms. Parsons.

Ms. Parsons then said Mr. Finegold is a mortgage broker, not a mortgage banker as he claims.

"I was sick of the deceit, the lies and the self-serving politicians who would say anything to get elected," she told the crowd at the Senior Center. "I don't have all the answers - no one does - but I have the education, the maturity and the ability to work with you, the government and the private sector to make the best possible decisions."

Following the closing remarks, Mr. Finegold said, "All I can say right now is I think it's unfortunate any time a campaign gets negative."

"When I was running for selectman I was basically not known. I ran a positive campaign about the issues" and beat incumbent Charles Wesson, he said. "What I see right now (for Ms. Parsons) is a desperate campaign and I'm not going to go to that level."

Ms. Parsons did not let the mortgage-banker issue die this week. She brought the newspaper a copy of Ch. 255E of the Mass. General Laws, which defines terms such as mortgage broker and mortgage lender.

"Mortgage banker is a term used by mortgage lenders. Barry is a mortgage broker," she said.

"She's way off on this. Way off," Mr. Finegold said this week. "I just don't get it. I don't understand the newsworthiness of it."

A fax from Daniel F. Lionetta, Mr. Finegold's branch manager at AccuBanc in Burlington, showed AccuBanc is a licensed mortgage lender in Massachusetts.

"We are in fact mortgage bankers in Massachusetts," he said. "When you refer to a mortgage lender, you are generally referring to a mortgage banker."

Mr. Lionetta said Mr. Finegold "is actually very well respected by all of his clients."

Phillips was diligent

We hold this to be true: That if a decision on the traffic problem in front of Phillips Academy were postponed for another two years, there would still be plenty of people unhappy with the final solution.

Any remedy to traffic going too fast in front of Phillips would be controversial. It's an important issue and that's why it has taken two years to be settled. People have been badly injured on that stretch of road. Now, a bid was awarded Aug. 28 to turn the four-lane road into one lane in each direction with turning lanes at intersections.

It is settled. And that's that. Even though it seems somewhat questionable to cut down road in a growing community, we applaud Phillips Academy for acting responsibly and with great concern for students' safety, for the beauty of the southern part of our Main Street, and for picking up the tab for part of the project.

Some people at Monday's Board of Selectmen meeting were upset and acted as though the Academy had slipped this solution by them quickly. That is not the case.

Since May of 1994 when two students were seriously injured on that road, Academy officials have been meeting with town and state officials to find a solution. The Academy funded a pedestrian safety study. The Academy worked with Senator John O'Brien to enact a School Campus Zone (which cut the speed limit to 30 from 35), and the selectmen endorsed the zone Sept. 1, 1994.

Twice the selectmen endorsed cutting down the road by two lanes, on Nov. 7, 1994 and again May 15, 1995.

The Mass Highway Dept. held a public hearing in Andover April 3, 1996 on the final plans. The meetings were all advertised in the Townsman.

The plans should not be a surprise.

The Academy has paid about $160,000 for the safety study, the School Campus Zone work and the design work. The total cost for the project is $747,000 and will be funded by state bonds.

People hate change. We'll have to get used to this one.

School uniforms: A difficult issue

By Perry Colmore

I've been following with interest the school uniform situation in Lawrence. I can't even make up my mind how I feel about families being required to buy uniforms for their school children. On the one hand, I believe that students in ripped jeans and T-shirts often take on the flavor of their dress and take school less seriously than they ought. I can see a kid with holes in his sneakers, shirt hanging out and jeans sitting with his feet up on a desk, and I can't imagine that for a kid in a plaid uniform.

On the other hand, I'm a bit uncomfortable telling anyone how to dress, even students. I'm not saying it shouldn't be done, I'm not sure if it should. I'm just saying I'm uncomfortable with such a policy.

I remember once when I was working at another newspaper and a reporter came to work in jeans. I don't remember the rest of his outfit so it probably wasn't too outrageous. The publisher, a man with strong opinions he wasn't afraid to voice, asked the reporter what he was doing that day.

"I'm interviewing So-And-So who's running for the Board of Selectmen," was the answer.

"Go home and change your clothes," shot back the publisher. "And don't ever come to work in jeans again."

Perhaps we should have had a dress code at that office, I don't know. Again, you hope people will use good sense in dressing without any rules. But many don't.

I wore a uniform in high school. My parents were living in the Philippines and I came back to the States to a boarding school. In a way we were grateful there was a uniform because I'd been living in a hot climate and didn't have clothes for cold winters. This made it easier to outfit me.

It was an all-girls school. Our uniform was a navy blue skirt, white middie blouse, navy blue blazer and what we called ties. We used the ties to express our individuality somewhat. Made of cotton, they were scarves folded so that they hung around the neck and ended at waist level in a folded knot. The ties differed in color to represent different groups or clubs: glee club, athletic association, theater group, student council and so on. So that was how you showed your individuality since we didn't have Nike, Reebok and New Balance choices to assert our differences.

But the uniform system at my school negated its purpose at night. After classes and afternoon sporting and club activities, we returned to our dormitories and dressed for dinner. And I mean dressed. This was a school 60 minutes out of New York City and a large percentage of the population of this school came from the city. Many had unlimited budgets. So at dinner you could tell the difference in a girl's economic background. I've never understood why that school had us dress in our own clothes at night.

Do you remember when a student at Andover High School refused to turn her T-shirt inside out or go home and change it? Some administrators decided her shirt, which showed large-breasted women, was inappropriate to wear at school. That young woman was arrested and charged with disturbing the peace because she was standing on The Rock, waving her bra, telling the world she had her rights. Students emptied out of the school to watch her (so did the police station) so I could see why she had to be removed from the scene. But I thought the

The last line of the story on Elliott Wilke and his Hummer, shown in the above photo, should have read, "And he drives a four-door Mercedes."

Car enthusiast makes some corrections

Editor, Townsmen:

As an auto enthusiast and owner of a classic car, the first thing I did when I got home last Thursday was read the article entitled "Some flashy cars and the people who drive them." The concept was excellent and I hope that you continue to cater to the other auto enthusiasts in your audience.

You could do this perhaps by mentioning some local car shows (there was a classic VW car show last weekend in Lawrence) and highlighting some less exotic, but nevertheless interesting, cars such as the Lancias, Fiats, MGs, VW Bugs, Ford Model-Ts and others that are often seen driving down Main Street on weekends.

I was appalled, however, by the numerous errors and the poor layout of the article. The piece on Mr. Wilke's Hummer ended abruptly at the end of the page, while the spelling of Mr. Caruso's first car, a Volkswagen Karmann Ghia, was severely mangled.

(The Karmann Ghia gets its name from the fact that it was designed by the Italian designer Ghia and produced by the Karmann coachworks in Osnabrueck, Germany). Mike Ricciardi must have a very odd Lamborghini (sic) with a 62(sic) barrel carburetor. Perhaps you meant that his Lambourghini had 6 two-barrel carburetors. Lastly, I did not know that 1963 Triumph TR3s ever came with a transition (sic).

Alastair Bor
149 Andover St.

[Editor's note: Our faces are as red as some of the cars in the article. The Hummer story lost a line of copy due to a computer glitch. Karmann Ghia was misspelled, but our source for the spelling was the service manager of a dealership! Six two-barrel carburetors being 62-barrel carburetors was a reporter's error.

And even Mr. Bor has since corrected his spelling of Lamborghini, which, we're grateful we did spell correctly! And transition/ transmission was a typo that the editor didn't catch. Oops!]

School uniforms: Difficult issue lengths she and her parents went to fight for her rights were extreme.

Now I think the AHS administration's gone too far with the new "no-hat rule" there. What if your hair is thinning and you're self-conscious? What if you like baseball caps? I think a baseball cap is an insignificant item to pick on and not worth worrying about. You have to pick your fights.

• It will be interesting to watch Lawrence work out its new uniform policy. Obviously, it will take some getting used to. And there will be people who will never fall into place. I understand people who are opposed to the new uniform policy. But there are some parents who are really digging into the trenches. I read about one mom who says she will "fight for my son's constitutional rights because he is worth it, because it is the right thing to do, and because some of my Irish ancestors came here and took that oath when they became citizens."

I think it makes more sense to wait and see how the uniforms affect school life. And it might be a better plan to fight so ferociously for some other issue. Like clearing drug abusers off the streets, for one.

POETRY CORNER

Wished they'd never leave

Dedicated to the tireless planners of the Andover/Andover soccer event and to our special English friend, Chris Hopper.

The new street folks arrived one eve,
And soon we wished they'd never leave.
Soccer games that bridged the sea
Were originally the key
To bring us all together here.
Who knew that we'd feel so much cheer?
Hurricane Edouard caused no pain,
Our British friends are used to rain!
Talking, shopping, hanging out,
That's what this week was all about.
Dinner, dancing, white balloons,
Danny singing Beatles tunes.
Kids, adults, the good times flourished
With love and friendship, all were nourished.
I've said so much but must add this:
Our house seems lonely without Chris!
Each time we think of England fair,
We'll miss our new friends who live there.
We'll have to write and hope they do,
Cause now we're all red, white and blue!

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

BRIDGE WORK

The fixed restoration known as a "bridge" may be used to fill in the gap left by missing teeth when no more than four adjacent front teeth or two adjacent side teeth are absent. As its name implies, this restoration is patterned after a highway bridge in that it is supported by abutments, the healthy teeth on either side of the gap that anchor the bridge by virtue of crowns. Between them is the span of artificial teeth, or pontic. Both these artificial teeth and the abutment crowns should not only match the natural teeth in terms of shape and color, but they should also appear as if they are rising out of the gums. As a point of fact, though, the pontic should be barely touching the gums, allowing enough space beneath the pontic so that dental floss can be passed along its underside to keep it clean.

Whether it involves bridge work for lost teeth or improving the ones you have, any program we suggest for your good dental health will be thoroughly discussed with you before the procedure is begun. When you are looking for all phases of state-of-the-art dentistry from people who really care, please call us at 475-2431. Come visit us at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93, and find out how pleasant a visit to the dentist can be. Office hours are by appointment. Emergencies cared for as soon as possible.

P.S. A bridge with a pontic supported by only one abutment is known as a cantilever bridge.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

DISCOVERING HEADACHE'S "MISSING LINK"

Research recently conducted at the University of Baltimore may well have uncovered the "missing link" between tension in muscles of the neck and headache, as well as provided a reason why chiropractic treatment may be so effective in relieving headache. What the researchers found was a tiny web of fibrous tissue connecting a muscle in the back of the neck with the brain's dura mater (the tough fibrous membrane forming the outermost covering of the brain and the spinal cord). When researchers moved the small muscle in the neck, the connecting tissue pulled on the dura mater and caused it to contract. Because the dura mater is abundant in nerves and produces intense pain when irritated, it is suspected that the newly discovered link provides new clues as to how tense neck muscles may play a role in headaches. It also may help explain how chiropractic can effectively ease the pain by easing the tension.

Are you suffering from painful headaches? Maybe it's time you tried chiropractic. Don't ignore a pain or discomfort. It is to your great advantage to visit the offices of DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP on a regular basis. It is entirely possible that pain and ill-feeling will be replaced by glowing good health. For more information or to schedule an appointment, please call 475-5042. We're located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. A major clinical trial at Northwestern College of Chiropractic indicates that six weeks of chiropractic care provided better long-term benefit for headache with fewer side effects than treatment with the antidepressant amitriptyline, used to control severe headache pain.

Samel Insurance Agency, Inc.

Samel Insurance Agency has been satisfying clients since 1952. Jonathan M. Samel, who purchased the agency in 1987 from his uncle and father, has overseen a 700 percent increase in the size of the agency since then. This growth has been made possible by a constant effort to treat client needs as if they were their own.

"People really value personal attention in today's world," said Mr. Samel. "And all our employees are trained to take the time to find out what each client's individual needs are, and to provide solutions for them that will meet those needs. One reason we do this well is that everyone in the office is a licensed agent (averaging 15 years of industry experience) and can handle client questions and provide accurate information quickly and expertly. Everyone is also required to take continuing education classes so that we can be current with the latest changes and trends in the insurance industry."

The agency offers both personal and commercial lines of insurance including property and casualty, group and individual life and health plans, competitive homeowner policies, individual and group automobile policies, and personal umbrella coverages. The commercial lines/business insurance programs include the full spectrum of business coverages including commercial property, general liability, worker's compensation, commercial auto, and pension and profit sharing plans. The financial services department provides financial and estate planning for individuals and group life, health, and profit sharing plans for corporate accounts. Samel represents some of the most respected and financially sound insurance companies in the country, such as ITT Hartford, The Maryland Group, and Norfolk & Dedham, and has recently been awarded contracts to represent Arbella and Commerce Insurance Companies.

Another aspect of caring is to be involved with the community and Mr. Samel certainly qualifies in this area. He is a committee chairman for the Lawrence Rotary Club, in charge of its adopt-a-school program in Lawrence, assistant treasurer and board member of Temple Emanuel in Andover and the games director for the Massachusetts Special Olympics Unified Sports Tournament. He was selected by the Olympic Committee as a "Community Hero," and participated as a torchbearer in the 1996 Olympic Torch Relay.

Samel Insurance Agency Inc. is a firm of proven professionals and caring conscientious people - the kind of people you can depend on. Telephone: (508) 474-0810.

Fall preview: Maglio to lead Golden Warriors into new era

FOOTBALL

By Rick Harrison

A new era in Andover High varsity football begins a week from tomorrow (Sept. 20), when the Golden Warriors launch their 1996 season with a non-league home game against first-time opponent Keene, N.H.

For the first time in 38 years, Dick Collins will not be calling the shots as head coach.

Ken Maglio, in his 20th season overall with the Andover grid program, succeeds the legendary Collins, who moves on to take the offensive coordinator's job for first-year varsity team Merrimack College.

Collins registered more than 235 wins at AHS, brought home seven league titles and went to three consecutive Super Bowls (winning two) in the mid-1970s.

Maglio spent 17 years (two different stints) as freshman coach at Andover and, for the last three, was a varsity line coach under Collins.

"All but two of my assistant coaches are new, and there is a certain sense of having to prove ourselves this year as a team and staff," said Maglio. "We're installing a different offense and defense, but the transition has been smooth and the team unity super."

The Golden Warriors graduated most of the offensive line from last year's 6-4 team, which won five of its final seven games, including top trenchmen Andy Lynch, Jason Dalton, Brian Cronin and Chris Dunn.

Also gone are two-way standouts Dana McCann and Mike Shaughnessy, along with John Blais, Erik DeMarco, Jeoung An, Derek DeAngelis and Chris Richter.

The staff greeted 84 candidates, including 14 freshmen working out with the varsity, at the opening day of double sessions Aug. 23.

"We hope we have the kids to step in and fill the holes in the offensive and defensive lines," said Maglio. "We're optimistic because they did well in our first scrimmage with Reading (defending Middlesex League and Eastern Mass. Div. 2-A Super Bowl champ).

"We're not that big but hopefully we'll be quick and well-conditioned. We expect the third and fourth quarters to be our time to wear the opponent down," said Maglio.

Most teams are launching their season this weekend, but Maglio feels the extra week of preparation will help the Golden Warriors.

"We definitely need it, not only to implement our system but to heal some of the bumps and bruises our players have gotten in pre-season."

Tisbert leads charge

Heading the list of eight returning starters is senior triple threat Brian Tisbert (5'9," 165 pounds), a quarterback-safety-placekicker considered by the majority of Merrimack Valley Conference coaches as the best and most versatile player in the league.

Last fall Tisbert led Andover with 60 points, including seven touchdown runs, 15 conversion kicks and one field goal. He also threw seven TD passes.

In three varsity seasons, the last two as the No. 1 signal-caller, Tisbert has scored 120 points (11 TDs, 40 PATs, four FGs, one conversion rush) and pitched 11 touchdown passes.

Other returning starters are senior tight end-defensive end Matt Muench (6'4," 225), senior two-way tackle Ted Crandall (6'2," 235), senior guard and nose guard Tom DiLiegro (5'8," 200), senior halfback-cornerback Jack Glazebrook (5'9," 160), senior fullback-linebacker Craig Hartwell (6,' 205), senior halfback-cornerback Ryan Games (6,' 165) and senior end-cornerback Brian Jordan (5'8," 150).

Glazebrook (18 points) and Games (12 points) both caught two touchdown aials last year.

Tisbert, Muench, DiLiegro and Hartwell (nursing a hip-pointer suffered at the Boston College summer camp) are team captains.

Other returning lettermen are senior tight end-defensive end Jeff Scott (6'2," 205), junior end-defensive back Joe Maglio (6,' 170), senior halfback-linebacker Josh Murphy (5'10," 165), senior guard-linebacker Brian Flanagan (5'8," 180), senior guard-linebacker Tom Hartwell (6'1," 180), senior end Ron Hajj (6,' 196) and junior quarterback-safety Brian Cutler (5'8," 160).

Josh Murphy scored one touchdown last season.

Seniors who are new to the varsity are halfback-linebacker Marc Tropeano (5'11," 170), halfback-cornerback Keith D'Amelio (5'9," 155), two-way end Mike Couture (6'1," 170), guard-defensive tackle Chris Rolfes (6,' 185), end Dirk Pahre (6,' 165), halfback Taylor Gleason (5'7," 135), halfback Brad McCue (5'8," 135) and end Ed Johnson (5'8," 155).

First-year juniors include end-cornerback Ben Gibson (5'10," 160), halfback-cornerback Ethan Murphy (5'8," 140), center Dan Barch (5'11," 180), guard-nose guard Brent Torre (5'11," 175), two-way tackle Matt Cox (6'2," 190), halfback-safety Matt Aufiero (5'11," 155), two-way end Jeff Danis (6'3," 225), end-cornerback Craig Elworthy (6,' 160) and end-safety Matt MacKenzie (5'10," 140).

Sophomores are two-way tackle Charlie Daher (6'2," 225), fullback-linebacker Tony Morando (5'10," 170), halfback-cornerback James Tammara (5'6," 135), quarterback-safety Rick Johnson (5'10," 155), guard-defensive end Chris Wholley (6'1," 190), center-defensive tackle Josh Trowbridge (6,' 220) and quarterback-safety Dave Kodinsky (6,' 185).

The Golden Warriors also have a potential diamond-in-the-rough, junior transfer student-athlete Alfonso Robinson of New Jersey, who should be a big contributor if he stays with the team.

Tisbert will do the punting and placekicking, with Gibson the backup placekicker.

Assistant coaches

The assistant coaches include Bill Ritchie, whose responsibilities are the wide receivers and defensive secondary, Scott Petrie (line), Joe Marinaro (line), Joe Celia (offensive backs), Jason Cote (tight ends, defensive ends), Brett Hammond (linebackers), Ken Pellerin (freshmen) and Frank Delaney (freshmen).

Ritchie is a former head coach at Shawsheen Tech, where he took the Rams to their only Super Bowl appearance (EMass. Div. 3) in 1978.

Marinaro, who starred in the offensive line at the University of Michigan (1992-'95), and Hammond (UMass) are volunteer coaches.

Petrie, Celia, Pellerin and Delaney are holdovers from last year's staff.

Opening opponent Keene replaces Leominster on the schedule, and the contract with the Blackbirds is only for one year.

Reading and Lawrence were the pre-season scrimmage opponents.

Maglio feels the MVC will be tough and well-balanced, as usual, with veteran Lowell, Methuen and defending champ Tewksbury teams given a slight edge over the rest.

The Golden Warriors' second non-league opponent will again be North Andover (away, Nov. 15), and the traditional Thanksgiving Day showdown with Central Catholic will be home at Lovely Field this year (Nov. 28, 10 a.m.).

Step By Step brings the community together

Step By Step is a five-mile non-competitive walk sponsored by the Townwide PTO, Andover public schools and Pike School, in conjunction with the American Cancer Society. Step By Step is an occasion for the community to come together to raise money for the Cancer Society.

The walk-a-thon provides an opportunity for anyone on whom cancer has made an impression to get together for a healthy celebration of life.

The purpose is to support patients with cancer, still struggling with the disease. To honor individuals who have survived cancer. And to remember loved ones who have succumbed to cancer.

It will take place Sunday, Oct. 27, rain or shine. Registration is from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Starting time for the walk is noon.

Beginning at the Park next to Doherty Middle School on Bartlet Street, the walk goes past Shawsheen School and West Middle School, up School Street to Locke Street and back to Doherty. There will be check stops with refreshments and rest rooms. Exit transportation will be provided for a medical necessity.

Volunteers are needed to assist in every aspect of the walk-a-thon. Call Diane Costagliola at 470-0942, Patrice Minton at 475-5680, or Lisa Williams at 475-1841.

The first organizational meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library.

Fall preview: Lady Warriors have depth

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

By Rick Harrison

Diana Liberty is believed to be the only four-time All-Scholastic athlete in Andover High history.

The former state 500-yard freestyle champion headed a list of talented graduates who helped spark the AHS women's swim team to a successful 7-4 dual meet record and strong showings in the MVC, North Sectional and State Championship Meets last fall.

However, the loss of those top athletes is the extent of the bad news for the Lady Warriors.

The good news is fifth-year head coach Marilyn Fitzgerald feels superior depth this season will make the Lady Warriors even better than they were in 1995.

"There is no way to instantly replace Diana Liberty," admitted coach Fitzgerald. "And I thought the loss of top diver Becky Ambro, who moved, would be devastating.

"But the truth is we have an outstanding freshman class, giving us more depth, and enough excellent divers that we should once again sweep that event at almost every dual meet.

"We also should be much improved and stronger in both the breaststroke, which has been a problem area for us in recent years, and in the butterfly, where Meghan Donahue was our only consistent scorer last year," added coach Fitzgerald.

"Once again it's a terrific group of girls, and I'm having as much fun, if not more, than they are."

The annual pre-season Relay Carnival, scheduled for tomorrow at Haverhill High, was recently cancelled.

In its place, the Lady Warriors will hold their own intra-squad Blue-Gold Meet to see for the first time how some of the younger competitors perform against the clock.

The regular Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet season opener is scheduled for next Friday, Sept. 13, at Lawrence. Home meets will again be held at the Greater Lawrence Tech School pool, the first scheduled for Friday, Sept. 20, against Lowell (3:30).

The nine-meet league schedule will be augmented with non-league duals against perennial state power Acton-Boxboro (home, Oct. 7) and Reading (home, Oct. 16).

Eight of the 11 meets this fall are at home.

Personnel

Diana Liberty is now swimming for the University of Maryland, while other top graduates from last year include Colleen Sheehy (Boston College), Lindsay Bates (Salve Regina), Michelle Vitale, Heather Vanderheiden, Erin Rogacki and exchange student Judit Gruber, who has returned to Germany.

Among the top performers this year will be versatile junior Jenna Blongiewicz (backstroke, sprint freestyle), senior Capt. Meghan Donahue (butterfly, IM), junior Bren-

Fall preview: Warriors shooting for title

GOLF

By Rick Harrison

Only at Andover High could the golf team lose six top players, including four-time All-Conference and two-time All-Scholastic Dave Shaffer, and still be considered the favorite to win the league championship yet again.

The Golden Warriors do not rebuild. They re-load.

Two years ago coach Bob Lawson's team went undefeated in league play, finishing 14-0-1 on its way to the MVC Large School title, before placing first in the Northeast Area Division 1 Qualifying for the State Tournament and tying for third in the All-State finals.

Last fall AHS went 15-1 in league play, with the only loss to Haverhill in mid-season, and won the MVC Small School title. They placed fourth in the Northeast Area Division 1 Qualifying, missing the All-State Tournament after losing a tiebreaker by one stroke.

Shaffer, second in the State Individual Championships in 1994 and fourth last year, is now playing golf at Northwestern University after another busy summer playing junior tournaments all over the country.

Other top graduates from last season are Jeff Shea (attending Tulane), Ken Oppenheim, Chris Kearn and Jay Levine.

Also gone is consistent winner Beth McCumber, among the best young women golfers in Massachusetts last year, who moved back to her

Field hockey starts season

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High varsity field hockey team opened its season last Monday afternoon with a 3-0 non-league loss to Dual County League power Concord-Carlisle.

Michelle Empey, Michelle Dalton, Lindsay Corcoran and goaltender Carrie Torrisi played well for the Lady Warriors, who launch their Merrimack Valley Conference campaign this week.

Solid veterans

Topping the list of returning veterans are junior Captain Rob Oppenheim, senior Captain Andy Mummey, senior Pat Annese and senior Geoff Gresh.

Oppenheim, an All-Conference selection last year, posted a 15-1-0 individual head-to-head match record and a 38.0 stroke average per nine-hole round while playing anywhere from No. 2 to No. 4 for the Golden Warriors.

Mummey was 8-5-2 and 42.0 while splitting time at No. 6 and 7, Annese 7-5-1 and 39.5 at No. 4 and 5, and Gresh 3-0-1, 43.0.

All four players are third-year varsity golfers. Oppenheim owns a 25-4-1 career record, Mummey is 19-7-3, Annese 11-11-2 and Gresh 7-2-1.

Others among the original turnout of 32 candidates with varsity experience are sophomores Nick Branzetti, Jin-Soo Joo, Christian Sempere and Mike Sheehy.

Branzetti and Sempere are making serious efforts to break into the regular starting lineup.

First-year varsity players are sophomores Tim Sheehy (Mike's twin brother), Steve Arsenault and Kevin Barry, along with freshmen Bob Heitz and Brianna Vega.

Vega, a transfer student from Illinois, is believed to be the only young woman in the league this fall (last year McCumber was joined by Kristen Infanger of Billerica).

"We lost our No. 1 and No. 3 (Shea) players and those are tough shoes to fill," said coach Lawson, who begins his 28th year at the helm. "But we have some nice young talent, and I think this team might surprise the coach by how good it is."

"Methuen has a veteran team and should also be a top contender, along with Chelmsford and Billerica."

League changes

The MVC has made a couple of major changes this fall in golf, switching from a two-division to a one-division set-up and calling for all matches to involve eight players and 12 total points.

There was also a strong push at the end of last year to switch from match to medal (stroke) play, but that idea was vetoed last week by an 8-1 vote by MVC athletic directors at their first meeting of the new school year.

Lawson, an advocate of match play for high schoolers, was pleased with the decision to keep things status quo.

"Although the larger tournaments are medal play, match is a more team-oriented format where even your No. 8 player can have a major impact on whether you win or lose," said coach Lawson.

"Match play also allows these kids, who are still learning the game, to forget about one or two bad holes. And the fourball allows a player who starts a round poorly to battle back and help his team earn a point by finishing strongly."

The Golden Warriors, who will again play home matches at Indian Ridge Country Club, were scheduled to open the season this past Tuesday at IRCC against Central Catholic.

Andover carries an eight-match league win streak into the 1996 campaign.

na O'Connor (breaststroke, backstroke, freestyle) and junior Kalley Thomas (500 free).

"Jenna (Blongiewicz) was one of the best sprint freestylers in the state last year, and she has even more potential in the backstroke," said coach Fitzgerald.

Senior Nicole Carpenter, who scored in last year's state meet, leads the talented crew of divers, which also includes junior Caitlin Neri (injured last season), sophomore State Meet qualifier Caroline Crocker, sophomore Allison St. Jean, senior Laura Martin and freshman Kristin Kearins.

Kearins carries on the family tradition established by talented older sisters Mia and Kasie, with Kasie continuing on to become one of the top divers at the University of New Hampshire.

Assistant coach Mary Wermers will once again work extensively with the divers.

Senior Caitlin Fitzpatrick (breaststroke) joins Donahue as a team captain.

Freshmen expected to make an immediate impact are Alexis Caselle, a standout in the breaststroke and IM, and Greta Kaminski who is strong in the butterfly, freestyle and IM.

Solid roster

Other seniors on the team, and their top events, are Julie Ahern (sprint freestyle), Jamie Bateman (freestyle), Emma Nowinski (breaststroke, backstroke), Jen Paull (distance free, fly, back), Nicole Sanella (freestyle), Dana Sawyer (free, back) and Hillary Winters (breast).

Juniors are Elise Brierley (back), Jenny DiFiore (IM), Sarah Lentz (back), Ana Leon (breast), Rebecca Parks (sprint free), Khara Tringale (free) and Jana Friedman (breast).

Additional sophomores are Liz Bigelow

(breast, IM), Julie Conn (distance free), Lauren Davis (free), Julie Hayner (free), Stephanie Mannors (sprint free, back, fly), Pam Muller (distance free), Arlene Nardone (breast), Melissa Osborne (breast, fly), Jen Pinta (breast), Jackie Sawyer (IM) and Meghan Twohig (free, back).

Also among the promising freshmen are Katherine Anderson (free), Cara Chiaraluce (free), Andrea Gordon (free), Jessica Greene (back), Kate McGrath (IM), Alison Munroe (sprint free, breast), Katya Yerozolinski (free, back, IM), Hilary Kiley (free), Nicole Stavropoulos (sprint free, fly), Stephanie Varley (fly) and Michelle Zaiter (sprint free, fly).

Coach Fitzgerald sees Chelmsford as the team to beat in the MVC once again, but feels Andover will join Nashua and Haverhill as the Lions' closest pursuers.

Andover's biggest parade ever

Eagle-Tribune, which is co-sponsoring the parade with Brickstone Properties, has created a float featuring a large eagle, while both the local Democratic and Republican committees have put aside election-year concerns long enough to build their own floats for the parade. The Andover Historical Society's float observes the town's role in the infamous witch hysteria of 1692. Members of the Andover/North Andover League of Women Voters will march in 1920s costumes, the year the League was founded, alongside their float, a 10-foot by 6-foot replica of the Statehouse.

Memorial Hall Library, the Girl Scouts and several of Andover's churches are among the numerous other groups that have floats designed to please the expected throng.

Andover citizens have served in every conflict in the nation's history and this proud heritage will be honored in the parade. At 12:30 p.m., before the parade begins, a group of veterans will help raise the 45-foot by 90-foot Mount Rushmore flag in a ceremony at Elm Green. The flag, suspended from a giant crane lent by Baldwin Crane Co., will wave over marchers and spectators. The parade will include local veterans, as well as a group of Concord Minutemen, World War II military vehicles and a number of military color guards.

The belief that the people of Andover have always been the community's greatest asset will be reflected in the parade, according to 350th Committee members. Students from all the public schools and St. Augustine will participate, representing the future of the town. The 350th Anniversary Committee, chaired by Norma Gammon, the Board of Selectmen and local legislators will represent the tradition of public service, as will units from the town's police and fire departments. Four of North Andover's five selectmen will also take part in the parade, as will former Andover selectmen. Civic groups, such as the Andover Village Improvement Society, will also march.

Andover's 350th anniversary parade has been planned to have something for everyone. Horses from Ironstone Farm symbolize the town's agricultural past, and a team of oxen, such as those that hauled granite to build the Great Stone Dam in Lawrence, represent its industrial growth. Diversion will be supplied by a 35-member team of unicyclists from Andover, N.H., as well as by the DeWolfe Briefcase Drill Team. Many other surprises are in store for spectators.

The 350th Anniversary Committee will have a stand selling memorabilia, and it is expected that independent vendors will have snacks for sale. For safety's sake, no bicycles, skate boards or in-line skates will be permitted.

Townsmen reporter Don Staruk contributed to this story.

Area temples celebrating high holy days with services

Havurat Shalom

Havurat Shalom, the Reconstructionist Jewish congregation in the Merrimack Valley, announces its High Holy Day service schedule. Havurat Shalom offers an alternative for families looking for meaningful services for the new year that are lay-led and feature traditional ritual combined with modern interpretation. The services combine prayer, music and readings and are fully participatory, engaging those familiar with Hebrew text and those for whom English reading are comfortable. The membership of Havurat Shalom is open and includes people who are returning to Judaism, those now discovering it and those who have been partnering Judaism with the culture and religion of non-Jewish spouses and friends.

The Jewish New Year of 5757 begins with Rosh Hashanah Services Saturday, Sept. 14, at 10 a.m. at Christ Church on Central Street. The congregation will share in the traditional snack of apples and honey during the services and light refreshments at the conclusion.

Tashlich Services, a symbolic ritual for purification of the heart and soul, will be held Sunday, Sept. 15, at 10 a.m. on the banks of the Shawheen River at the corner of routes 28 and 133.

"Man, Woman, Child: A Human Adventure"

The three intimate human relationships, together known as the "nuclear family," will be the worship theme this Sunday at 10:30 at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation, 6 Locke St., in downtown Andover. A focal point for the service will be Chiwara sculptures from the Baribara Tribe in Mali, West Africa. Guest violinist will be Josef Porteleki.

The Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Andover draws from all religious traditions to help individuals find pathways to spiritual growth in community.

Andover at 400:

Public forum looks at community, land use, environment

In what ways does Andover feel like a community for you and your family? If you have defined your concept of "why you live in Andover" or are just curious, come to the public forum for the Andover at 400 series: Community, Land Use and Environment (C.L.U.E.) Wednesday, Sept. 25, at Memorial Hall Library.

This forum offers you the opportunity to explore ideas with fellow Andoverites to determine how the quality of life in our community can be sustained and enhanced for the future, according to organizers.

The program is part of the 350th celebration.

1906: The Andover B & M Station was built in the shingle style and local photographer Charles Henry Newman captured this lively scene. At the time, Andover had a full schedule of trains to and from Boston.

1996: In what ways does Andover feel like a community for you and your family? A public forum Sept. 25 at Memorial Hall Library will explore the topic.

IF IT'S NOT A DREAM OFFER

Your adrenaline is flowing! Your agent has just called to say that he has an offer on your home, and you can't wait to hear it! But when your agent presents you with the contract, the bubble bursts. It's not enough money! The buyers want to postpone the closing for three months, and they have asked for your brand new washing machine. You think that it just won't work!

Maybe it can. Before you reject any offer on your property, you should consider making a counter offer. Rarely does an offer look the way it would if you had written it yourself. Consider the good and bad points, and try to work with the agents to find some middle ground that both you and buyers can live with. You may have to go back and forth several times, and there will probably be compromises on both sides. Unless you are lucky enough to be selling in a strong sellers' market, the buyers will expect to do some bargaining. With a little patience, you and your agent can help create a "win-win" situation for both you and the buyers.

Before selecting a Realtor, call 1-888-FAX-2100 and ask for document #2020.

Introducing Value Range MarketingSM

When it comes to selling houses, we've just re-invented the wheel.

The Prudential Value Range Marketing is a revolutionary, yet proven way to market your house that gives you more options. The results are nothing short of remarkable. Wherever this program has been introduced, houses have been selling at least twice as fast as the market average. And many VRM-listed houses sell for more than the owner expected. Why? Because Value Range Marketing attracts more qualified buyers, and creates more competition for your house.

The exclusive VRM Wheel is the key to Value Range Marketing.

Here's how it works. Instead of listing your house at a fixed price, you use The VRM Wheel to select a value range in which you "will entertain offers." This VRM listing sends a powerful message to qualified buyers. It gives them a comfortable basis to open negotiations sooner. To find out more about this revolutionary program that can help your house move fast, call today.
